Biographical / Historical
Robert E. Apfel was born on March 16, 1943, in New York City. He graduated magna cum laude from Tufts University in 1964 and received his PhD in Applied Physics, specializing in acoustics, from Harvard in 1970. He was a member of the Yale faculty for over three decades, serving as chair of the Council of Engineering during a critical time in the shaping of engineering education and research there. He was respected at Yale as a teacher and mentor of graduate students, receiving the Yale Graduate Mentor Award in 2002. He was an active member and served as president (1995-1996) of the Acoustical Society of America, receiving its Gold Medal Award in 2002. He published over 120 articles in thirty-six journals during his career. Apfel died in New Haven on August 1, 2002.
